Dear all you horse people

I would like to start off by thanking the academy. I am here today to talk to you about a dream, a dream that one day a city boy like me can go from using technology and the internet, which no horse owner understands, to talking about horses in such a way that only makes sense when you not paying attention to what I'm saying, I think I have completed that dream this year. Special thanks to my horse show family for helping me get here, and my regular family too I guess. #SRNtime
